SHADOW FIGHTER

Kioya Mishuma, a seventeenth century Samurai lived an honourable and disciplined life. The Emperor held him in high esteem, valuing both his agile mind and skill with the sword. He was also fondly regarded by the people, his balanced judgement and wisdom never seeming too harsh nor lenient.

But Kioya was plagued by dreams, he longed for more fame, for more recognition. Kioya's burning ambition was to be regarded as a living legend. This caused a great inner conflict, Kioya's strict Samurai code would not allow for such thoughts, his health began to suffer.

These dreams did not go unnoticed. Chronozon, keeper of the abyss and gateway to the after world found them of great interest. He dispatched his personal insubordinate to claim such a noble soul, for such a soul would be highly prized by his master. Rewards would be great.

Kioya found himself falling one night, for hours he plummeted through the dark veils of dreams, until suddenly he woke with a start. A shadow darker than the night stood at the foot of his bed and in its out stretched palm it held a moving globe of light. Kioya gazed into the orb and a smile slid across his face, all of the dreams which had troubled him were there, there for the taking. The shadow smiled too.

Kioya instinctively reached for his sword, it felt lighter and more balanced than it had ever done before. With one experimental swing he realised that he had been blessed, this silent messenger who had appeared unbidden had fulfilled his life long dreams. The long struggle with his conscience was over.

His feats across the kingdom became legendary. Kioya could do the impossible it was said, he could do, or be, or take anything he pleased. Unfortunately Kioya also heard these tales and he believed them, he more than believed them he knew them to be true. Soon his confident swagger was despised by other Samurai, who had been insulted and belittled by his words and deeds of mockery. Kioya had begun to abuse his legendary status and the people he had once needed saw him for the false idol he was, and realised they no longer needed him. Kioya rebelled against his doubters, and in a paranoid rage killed countless of his fellow Samurai. And his people, who had once respected his judgement fell beneath his merciless blade. To the public's eye Kioya had all but disappeared.

These deeds did not go unnoticed. Chronozon, keeper of the abyss and gateway to the after world found them of great interest. He dispatched his Daemon servitors to curse such a worthless and foolish soul, for such a soul would be of little value to his master. Kioya had broken his word.

Cursed to become one of the walking dead and forbidden passage to the after world, Kioya's only wish was for release, to be able to rest after an eternity of shame. Kioya drifted through the centuries, his body rotting and his sanity suffering. Eventually he offered a tremendous reward for the individual who could give him peace, someone who could overcome his formidable combat skills. Fighters from all around the world began combat, for the honour of pitting themselves against the Shadow Fighter. Perhaps the greatest fighter who had ever walked the earth.

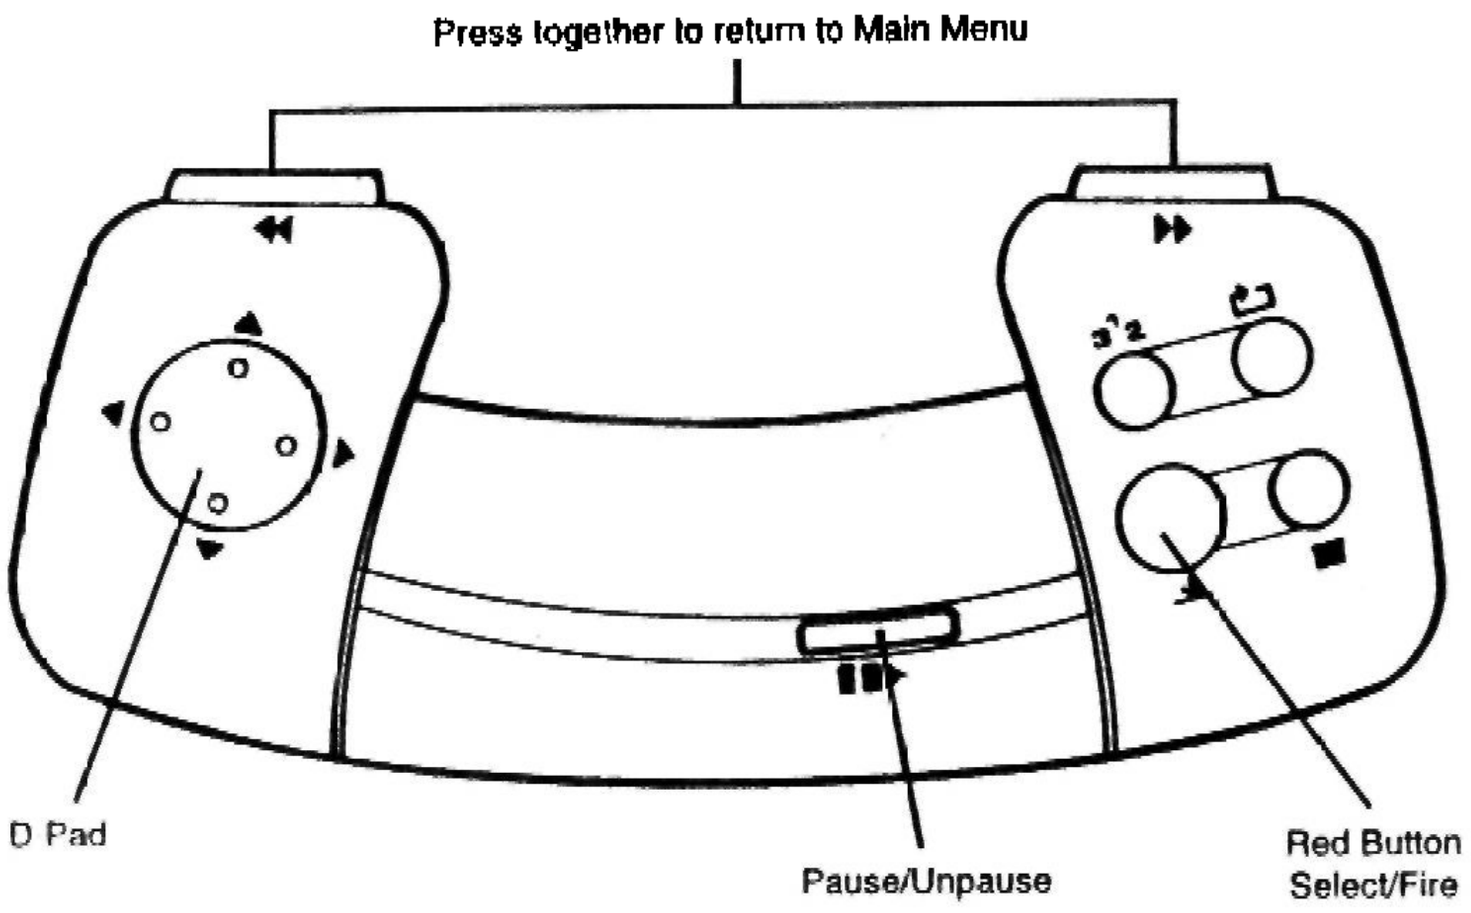
D-PAD CONTROLS



SHADOW FIGHTER

USING YOUR D-Pad ON THE MENU SCREENS AND CHARACTER SCREENS

Menu Screens: Use the D-Pad to move up and down and press the red button to select. The small arrow on the left of the text will indicate your current choice.

Character Screens: Use the D-Pad to move up, down, left and right. To select a character press the red button when the desired character is highlighted.

To return to the Main Menu from any point in the game press the top two buttons on the D-Pad.

The Main Menu

OPTIONS MENU

Select the Options Menu from the Main Menu by moving to it and pressing the red button on the D-Pad. Move up and down to select an option, the small arrow will indicate your current choice. Then press the red button to toggle through the available options.

Difficulty: Select Easy, Normal or Hard. Select a setting to match your fighting skill. The harder the setting the harder your opponents will be to beat.

Stunned: Select to turn this option On or Off. If you select On, your opposition will be stunned for a few seconds after a combination of blows or special moves making it easier to finish them off with a lethal blow. On the other hand it could leave you seeing the stars!

Blood: Choose On or Off.

Sound: Select Music, Background effects or Sound effects while you're fighting. In either Music or Background effects mode you still get to hear all fighting sound effects,so you can hear your fatal blows land as your opponent hits the ground.

Time: Select a 30, 60 or 90 second timed battle. If you select a time limited battle the player with the most energy left after the time limit will be the winner, or select Unlimited for a timeless battle to the very end.

Exit: Select Exit to return to the Main Menu

SELECTING A MODE

Shadow Fighter has four different options, these are described in more detail below.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT (1 PLAYER)

Select this mode to pitch your fighting skills against the awesome Shadow Fighter.
However, meeting Shadow Fighter is not as easy as it may seem. There's no walking through all the levels on easy in this game, it would be an insult to Shadow Fighter. If you are playing with the difficulty set on Easy mode you can choose from the first six fighters only. After you've selected your fighter you will face up to ten opponents but you won't meet Shadow Fighter. If you select Normal mode you can select any fighter from the first twelve fighters and you will have to win thirteen fights in your bid to fight the Shadow Fighter. If you select Hard mode you can choose any character you wish and will have to win sixteen fights before you have a chance to knock the Shadow Fighter for six. If you lose your challenge at any point you have 3 credits (4 games) to try and meet Shadow Fighter. Press a button to continue or let the time limit expire to return to the Main Menu.
High Score: Even if you don't get to meet or beat Shadow Fighter there is always the chance to get your name on the high score table. Use the D-Pad to highlight a letter and press a button to select a letter.

TRAINING SIMULATOR

Not sure how to pull off those special moves or how to put a stunning combination together? Then Pupazz is your man or even puppet, well we're not quite sure what he is but he isn't a push over that's for sure. The Training Simulator was designed with Beat'em Up gameplayers in mind, there's nothing worse than being beat by the computer or a friend every time you play a Beat'em Up, Shadow Fighters Training Simulator allows you to learn to do the special moves and put combinations together, but don't be fooled into thinking that Pupazz likes having the stuffing beaten out of him, he doesn't. After each battle the computer will ask you if you wish to continue to fight using the same characters. Select Y to continue or N to return to the Main Menu.

SINGLE BATTLE (1 PLAYER)

Like VS BATTLE this mode allows you to choose any fighter you wish. After you've selected your fighter the computer will choose a fighter for you to play against as well as the location. The first fighter to win two rounds is the winner. If you lose your challenge at any point you have 3 credits (4 games) to try and beat the computer. Press a button to continue or let the time limit expire to return to the Main Menu.

VS BATTLE (2 PLAYERS)

In this mode two players can select any fighter (or the same fighter) they wish for a head to head battle of fast cut fighting action. Both players select their fighter and then select a location in which to fight. The first fighter to win two rounds is the winner. After each battle the computer will ask you if you wish to continue to fight using the same characters, select Y to continue or N to return to the Main Menu.

SELECTING A FIGHTER

This screen is where you select your fighter, use the D-Pad to move up, down, left and right. The fighter will be highlighted by the highlight box and their portrait will appear on the bottom left of the screen. If you are playing in VS BATTLE mode, player two's fighter will show on the bottom right of the screen. Each player's highlight box can be identified by the initial in the box, player one's box is 1P and player two's is 2P. To select a fighter press the red button, then select a stage to fight at. If you're playing in SINGLE BATTLE or CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT the computer will randomly select your opponent and the location.

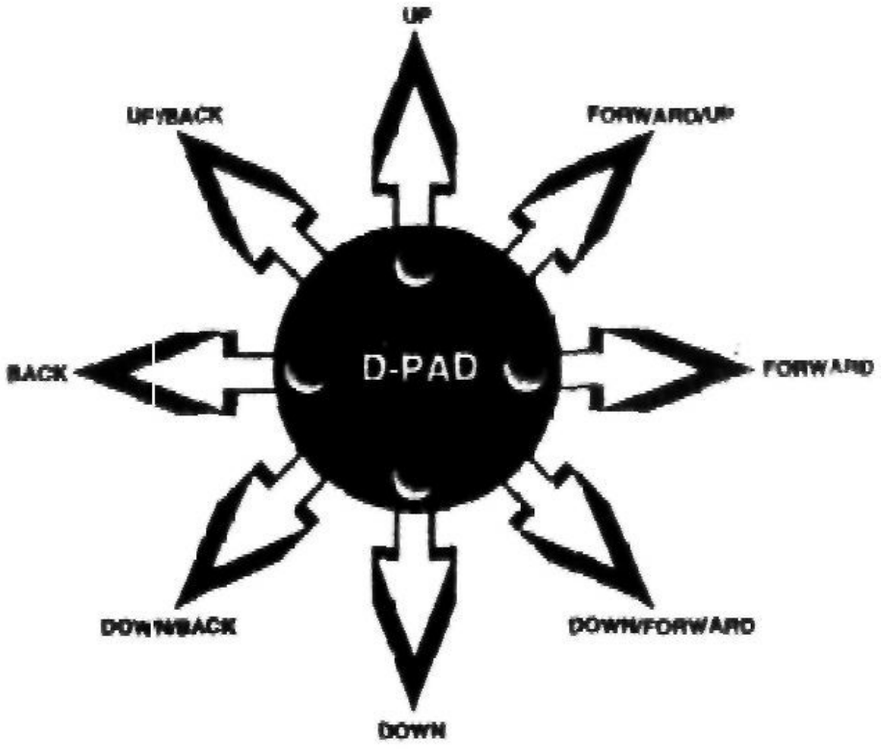
1. All the characters. 2. Stage/Location selection. 3. Player one's fighter 4. Player two's/ Computers fighter. 5. World g'obe showing the position of the chosen stage.

FIGHTING AND SPECIAL MOVES

Basic Moves

Every fighter in Shadow Fighter has a set of unique basic and special moves. All these moves can be done by using the D-Pad and the red button, this is what makes Shadow Fighter unique. There's no pressing six buttons and trying to do a 360 degree clockwise rotation at the same time. Shadow Fighter is the first true one button Beat'em Up on the CD32, it also happens to be the best.

The basic movement of each fighter is shown below.



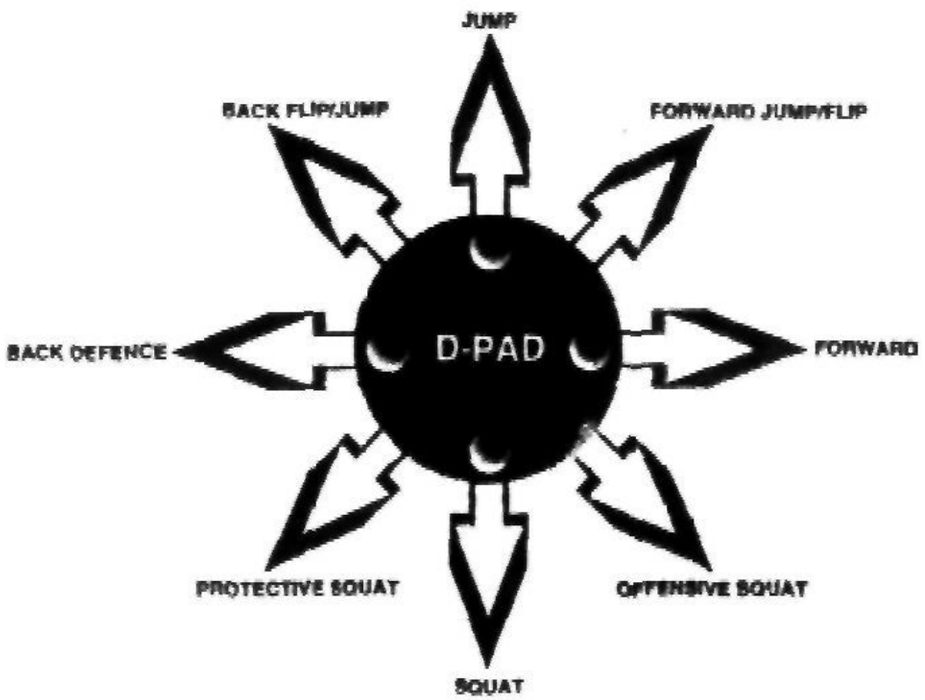
Note: This diagram shows the D-Pad positions for a fighter who is facing to the right. These positions are reversed if you are facing to the left.

As well as the basic and special moves the fighters in Shadow Fighter have moves that only come into play when both fighters are at close range, some fighters will throw an opponent, others will do a hold or an inside punch.

You'll also find that if you press the red button at the same time as you make a basic move your fighter will do a different move to the basic one. All the fighters in Shadow Fighter use this method, giving each fighter more versatility. So, who does which ? I hear you ask. You'll want me to play your game for you next.

SPECIAL MOVES

Like the basic moves, every fighter has a set of unique special moves, you'll find a list of the special moves for each fighter in the Fighter Information File. From the list of available special moves you'll find two of these explained under the screen shots, you'll have to find the rest by yourself, experimentation and a great deal of practice is the key here. These moves can prove difficult to pull off but with a lot of practice you'll be able to put some stunning combinations together. The diagram below should help you understand all the different D-Pad positions.

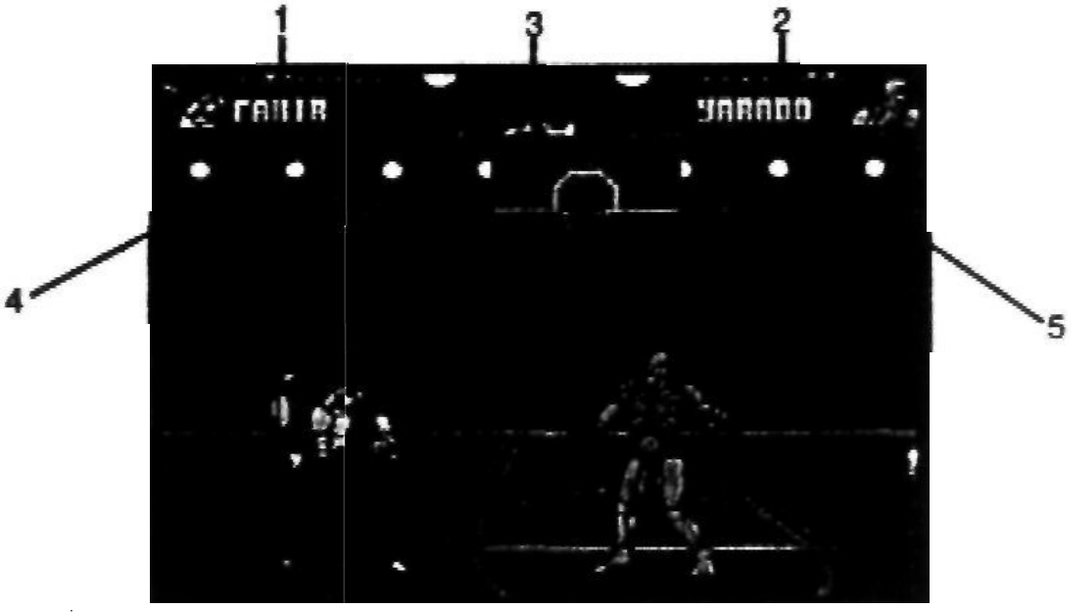


Note: This diagram shows the D-Pad positions for a fighter who is facing to the right. These positions are reversed if you are facing to the left.

So, for example lets say that Slamdunk has a special move that is described below one of the screen shots as Down, Down/Back, Back + Fire. To pull this move off you must move the D-pad in one continuous move from Down to Down/Back to Back and then press Fire (Red Button) to pull off the special move. If a special move is described as Forward, Forward/Down, Down, Down/Back, Back, Back/Up, Up, Up/Forward, Forward + Fire you must do a full 360 degree clockwise rotation starting from Forward and then press Fire. As mentioned before it takes great deal of practice to pull off some of the moves. Use the Training Simulator to practice and find the special moves, try different combinations of movement on the D-Pad and fire button.

THE PLAY SCREEN

Once you've chosen the mode and your fighter you'll be taken to the Play Screen. This is where all the action starts, you must use all your skill and all your fighters moves to kick, punch and smash your opponent into the ground. The more times you hit your opponent the more his energy level will decrease, once this is completely depleted you'll be declared the winner of that round. If you're the first to win two rounds in any challenge you'll be the winner of that challenge. If you're playing in a CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT and you win two rounds you will automatically earn the right to go onto the next challenge, in a bid to meet the almighty Shadow Fighter face to face. If you are playing in Easy mode, you'll face only ten other fighters. Shadow Fighter is very particular about who he fights and anyone who tries to take him out by flying through the rounds on Easy doesn't deserve to meet such a worthy opponent. If you can complete the ten fights in Easy mode with ease, then you're ready to switch up a mode to Normal and do battle with some of the best Beat'em Up characters ever on your quest to beat THE SHADOW FIGHTER.



1. Player one's score. 2. Player two's/Computers score. 3. Time remaining (if selected).
4. Players one's energy level. 5. Player two's/Computers energy level.

SCORING POINTS AND HIGH SCORE TABLE

In Shadow Fighter for every challenge you win you are awarded points for your performance after every challenge. If you get the first kick or punch in you will receive a First Blow 5000 points, if you manage to put together a combination that that stuns your oppenent you will recieve an Excellent points award of 15000. If you finish of your oppenent without being hit at any point you'll recieve a Perfect bonus of 25,000, do this twice in a row and you'll get a Double Perfect award of 50,000. If you are playing in a Time limited mode and both fighters are still standing after the limit is up the remaining energy of the winner will transferred into points.
